

Biodata: Fahimeh Marefat, Mahnaz Mostafaei Alaei, & Mohammad Sajedifard

Fahimeh Marefat is an associate professor of Applied Linguistics at Allameh Tabataba'i University. Her area of interest is writing, assessment and research methods. Recently, she is working on genre awareness approaches to paper writing in EFL context and English for publication purposes.

Mahnaz Mostafaei Alaei is presently an Assistant Professor at Allameh Tabataba'i University, Tehran, Iran. She holds a Ph.D. degree in TEFL and has been teaching various courses in applied linguistics since 1990. Her research interests focus on interlanguage variation, ESL/EFL teaching programs, and instructional issues in multicultural contexts.

Mohammad Sajedifard holds an M.A. in TEFL from Allameh Tabataba'i University. He is an EFL teacher and researcher. He is a multilingual and has also taught Turkish for elementary and intermediate students. His research interests include but are not limited to Education, Teacher Education, Multilingualism, Discourse Analysis, Pragmatics, Language Testing and Assessment, Language Teaching, and Cultural Linguistics.